

All Gone

Harry Knauer, 63, Spring City RD 1, sits dejectedly amid the charred remains of what once were all his worldly possessions as he contemplates the damage done by a fire which left his little one-room shack a flame-blackened ruin. A day laborer, he was working inside the Mt. Pleasant school, a few yards away from his home, when a coal-oil stove inside the shack exploded. Alone in the world, Knauer was put up at the Ridge firehouse until he can find another place to stay. "If there's any folks with some spare lumber, I'd sure appreciate it," he said, "because I'd like to build a little three-room bungalow."

Fire Guts One-Room Shack, Leaves Man, 63, Homeless

By BARRY R. NEMCOFF
(Mercury Staff Writer)

A 63-year-old man, alone in the world, lost all his possessions last night when fire ravaged the little one-room shack he called home.

Tears were evident in the eyes of Harry Knauer, Spring City RD 1, as he poked through the charred remains of what had once been his modest belongings, and said quietly, "All gone, everything I owned is burned, except two shirts, one pair of pants and some dishes."

The fierce blaze that left the small 8 by 10-foot wooden building nothing more than fire-blackened ruin, resulted from a coal-oil stove explosion while Knauer was away cleaning inside the Mt. Pleasant school a few yards from his home.

"I had put some beans to cook on the stove out on the porch around 4:30," he related in a shaking voice. "and was busy working inside the school, when the next thing I knew I heard yelling outside. I got out there in time to see nothing but flames all around the house."

The sight struck me so suddenly that I could only say "Oh."

THE FIRE first was seen by Mr. and Mrs. David Merroth, of Linfield, as they were driving past the shack on their way home from visiting relatives.

Mrs. Merroth urged her husband to stop and investigate if anyone was trapped in the blaze, "but the flames were so wild that I couldn't even get near it," he said.

Merroth immediately drove to the Ridge firehouse, and summoned the firefighters who arrived only to find smoldering wreckage.

"It took us about ten minutes to do what was still burning, and in a half hour we had the situation completely under control," said Charles Rohrbach, assistant fire chief.

Left completely homeless, the gray-haired man dressed in a dirty tee-shirt and torn trousers, told how "wonderful neighbors had invited me to stay at their homes but I'm going to take Charlie's (Rohrbach) offer of sleeping at the firehouse."

HE ESTIMATED the damage at between $500 and $600. "My Sunday clothes, everyday clothes and eight or nine pair of shoes are all burned," he said pointing into the dark interior of his one room.

Inside there was the scorched frame of what was once a bed, a charred radio, cracked jars of preserves and burnt magazines.

"Many a day I listened to that," (Continued on Page Thirteen)

Burglar Pleads Guilty, Is Given 7½ to 15 Years

The 33-year-old man who admitted to Jeffersonville State police that he committed 22 safe-crackings was sentenced yesterday morning to serve 7½ to 15 years in prison for the three he committed in Montgomery county.

Kenneth R. Dries, Baltimore, Md., pleaded guilty to charges of opening safes in Pennsylvania and East Greenville High schools, getting a total of $25, and of opening one in the office of Boss Manufacturing company in Palm, getting $119.

While he was driving away from the Palm office early Saturday morning, the past Aug. 2, he was arrested by Jeffersonville State Troopers Carl Ziegler and Vincent McGone.

In passing sentence, Judge William F. Dannehower told him that a much heavier sentence would have been imposed except that he faces further sentences for the 19 remaining crimes, committed in nine other counties.

Contract Signed By President of Rubber Union

Robert E. Garber, president of Local 356, United Rubber Workers of America (CIO), joined the seven other locals of the union in signing the recently-negotiated master contract last night at 6 o'clock.

Garber had not signed the new two-year pact when the union and the Firestone Tire and Rubber company reached an agreement on terms in Columbus, Ohio, early Monday morning.

Garber was following instructions contained in a telegram sent by the local membership after a special meeting Sunday morning. At that time, Garber was told that the terms of the contract were not adequate.

Garber signed the contract at the local plant yesterday following a meeting of the union's executive board. Present at the signing were H. V. Brown and George R. Bass, URW international representatives, and R. M. Stacy, assistant director of industrial relations for Firestone, and Dwight B. Eib, personnel manager of the Pottstown plant.

Fog, Humidity Greet Borough

A wet, gray fog rolled in over Pottstown yesterday morning. Auto commuters crawled to work over treacherous highways.

As the morning sun climbed out of an eastern bed of clouds the fog dissipated and the sticky, humid breath of an easterly wind drifted over the borough. At noon the temperature crawled to 80. It was 84 by 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and 75 at midnight last night.

The weatherman has no golden promise for the Labor Day weekend. Today will be cloudy with a high in the 80s. Occasional rain is predicted for tonight. Tomorrow will be cooler.

Limerick Man Finds Flying Economical, Safest Way to Do Much of His Traveling

Alvin "Gabby" Renninger, Limerick, one of the few people who saw the literal start of Pottstown airport in Limerick, has an airplane that specializes in economy.

When he was about ten years old (he's 35 now), he saw an airplane circle farms in Limerick, then pick out one and land on it.

The pilot was Wayne Geary. He had flown from Allentown to look over sites for an airport. The farm on which he landed was the one Geary chose.

Geary's landing started Ben-nicker's imagination, and ever since, he's been enthusiastic over flying.

SINCE 1949, he's owned an 85-horsepower, two-place Cessna. In 1950, it took him and Paul Mitchell, vice president of Neapco Products incorporated, to Havana, Cuba, and back for a total cost of $61.85.

This paid for 162 gallons of gasoline, three quarts of oil and the cost of "parking" at three airports.

Renninger holds a license for commercial flying and for flying

As airplane chauffeur, he once voluntarily took 22 people up, one at a time, during a picnic at the Flyers' Roost, of which he's a member, at the airport in Limerick where he hangs his plane.

He also flies friends and fellow-workers at the Spicer plant, where he's been employed for 13 years. He's a grinder there.

Hemlock Row Petition Given To Committee

A petition signed by the owners of the 15 houses on Hemlock row, Ninth ward, requesting a paved street in front of their homes and street lights, has been turned over to council's highway and sewer committee for action.

Paul Marshall, committee chairman, said last night the petition will be considered by the committee at a meeting sometime next week and may be brought up during the Sept. 5 council session.

Marshall said the committee must determine whether the petition, which requests the ordination of Hemlock row between King and Walnut streets, has been signed by all property owners on the street.

Marshall added that Borough Solicitor C. Edmund Wells must be consulted as to whether the borough maintains legal right to a road entering High street from Hemlock row through Penn village. This road was closed to traffic after the village was constructed.

THE BOROUGH also must receive a release for property at the north end of the row near Walnut street, which is not owned by a (Continued on Page Thirteen)

Labor Day Halts Most Operations

Pottstown's industrial big five will observe the Labor Day week end with varying work schedules.

The Firestone Tire and Rubber company will be closed officially from 11 o'clock tonight until 11 o'clock Monday night, but only a few operations will be conducted today.

The majority of Firestone workers will enjoy a three-day holiday.

Doehler-Jarvis corporation and Spicer Manufacturing division of the Dana corporation will be closed from this morning to Tuesday morning.

THE STANLEY G. Flagg company, West High street, Stowe, will close on Labor Day only. The (Continued on Page Thirteen)

Seven Area Boards Adopt Resolutions For High School Merger

By ED ZUMACH
(Mercury Staff Writer)

The much-discussed and much argued Upper Perkiomen Joint High school was formed last night by East Greenville, Red Hill, Upper Hanover, Pennsburg, Green Lane, Marlborough and Sumnertown Independent school boards in the East Greenville High school.

Each board adopted a resolution agreeing to participate in the jointure. Official signing of the jointure agreement is expected to be executed at an organization meeting of the seven boards at 8 o'clock Thursday night in the old East Greenville High school building.

A motion postponing the opening of school for the seven school districts involved, from Sept. 8 to Sept. 15, to assure the jointure time to be organized and obtain approval of its formation from the State Department of Public Instruction, was approved unanimously.

The postponement will affect all the First to 12th grade pupils in the seven districts. The delay will permit the jointure to be operative this school year and take advantage immediately of jointure appropriations to be forthcoming from the State.

Though the jointure is to be called the Upper Perkiomen Joint High school, it will supervise the education of all elementary school pupils in the seven districts, too.

THE ORGANIZATION meeting also will include election of a delegate and an alternate by each board to a committee which will operate as a joint school board, election of joint board officers, and election of a supervising principal for the jointure.

Home Seems Good After Trip Abroad

By CHARLES T. HEARN
(Mercury Staff Writer)

"Germany is beautiful in the Alps and along the Rhine," Mrs. M. Louise Welch, 350 Walnut street, commented yesterday on her recent 10-week trip to her birthplace, "but you don't know how happy I am to be back home again."

Twenty-five years ago at the age of 41, Mrs. Welch came to the United States from a little town in the Alps near Frankfurt, Germany. She lived in Philadelphia for two years before moving to Pottstown where she has lived for the past 22 years.

BROTHER, SISTERS SEPARATED OVER 40 YEARS

Family Will Be United Abroad

A Stowe woman and her 19-year-old daughter leave Wednesday on a six-weeks trip abroad that will be highlighted by the mother's reunion with a brother and sister she hasn't seen for more than 40 years.

Mrs. Peter P. Krigolo, 324 Elm street, Stowe, and her daughter, Helen Krigolo, are sailing on the Queen Elizabeth to Britain and France.

Going with them as far as Britain will be a friend and former neighbor, Ernest M. Wentzel, Pottstown RD 3.

Mrs. Krigolo has not seen her brother, Joseph Gotz, a tailor in London, or her sister, Mrs. Susie Meyer, wife of a machinist in Moselle, France, for 45 and 42 years, respectively.

THE BROTHER went from the family home in Hungary to England three years before Mrs. Krigolo came to America 42 years ago. She is 56 years old now.

Miss Krigolo, a switchboard operator at Memorial hospital, wanted her father, a finishing department worker for Gudebrod Brothers Silk company incorporated, to make the trip instead of her, but he insisted that his daughter take advantage of the opportunity for her first trip abroad.

The daughter said Mrs. Krigolo was "very much excited" about the (Continued on Page Thirteen)

Thrilling Trip's Ahead

Mrs. Peter P. Krigolo, 324 Elm street, Stowe, and her 19-year-old daughter, Helen Krigolo, approach the end of days of packing for their six-weeks trip to Britain and France, to see a brother and sister of Mrs. Krigolo's whom she hasn't seen for more than 40 years. Going to Britain with them will be a former neighbor, Ernest Wentzel, Pottstown RD 3.

Parochial School Pupils Check-up Is Scheduled

Pupils of St. Aloysius parochial school will be examined by Dr. Joseph J. Mullen, Pottstown physician, in late September, the Rev. William M. Bexley, rector, reported yesterday.

The examination is being made under the sponsorship of the Visiting Nurse organization, which will attempt to correct all health defects revealed by the check-up.

Annual examinations are required at all public and parochial schools, but this will be the first time the follow-up procedure is being used at St. Aloysius.

Funeral Home Request to Go Before Board

The second half of a move that would outflank one family's opposition to bringing a funeral home into a former residence at 726 High street will be one of three proposals to be heard Thursday night by the zoning board of adjustment.

Kenneth M. Fleischman, whose funeral home now is at 258 Beech street, will ask permission to move the business to the High street property, which is in a residential zone.

He is making the request under a two-week-old ordinance permitting the zoning board to make such exceptions for religious, educational and philanthropic uses, specifically including hospitals, medical clinics and mortuaries.

Passage of this ordinance permitted council to grant Fleischman's general request without resorting to "spot zoning"—amending the zoning ordinance for one particular case.

ATTORNEY CARL M. Binder told the council the past June, when he represented Dr. and Mrs. C. Robert Elicker, 729 High street, that "spot zoning" is unconstitutional.

Dr. and Mrs. Elicker opposed Fleischman's proposal. They were the only residents of the neighborhood to protest to council.

The other two proposals the zoning board will hear at its 8 p. m. meeting in borough council are:

1. For granting permission to Joe L. Bowen, Pottstown real estate broker who has an office at 17 North Hanover street, to incorporate a real estate and insurance office into his home at 1021 Elmwood drive in the North End.
2. For granting permission to Mrs. Gerald M. Foul, 22 West Third street, proprietor of Beverly's Beauty shop there, to put a beauty parlor in one room of a new home to be built at 21 West Fifth street.

commented, "I am very happy to hear that Local 356 has joined the other plants in signing the master contract negotiated at Columbus."

Before the contract goes into effect, it has to be approved by a majority of the 24,000 U.R.W. workers in eight Firestone plants. Garber said no date had been set yet for the local union vote, but expected it would take place within two weeks, as required by the union constitution.

Garber said that although the local executive board had decided to support the contract, it was uncertain as to how the membership would vote on the agreement.

The contract, which will run to June 10, 1954, will provide workers with a full union shop, a 10-cent an hour wage increase, improved vacation program, reporting pay provisions, pay for holiday work not worked, double time for holiday work and piecework allowances.

The old agreement with Firestone called for a "modified" union shop which permitted employees to remain outside the U.R.W. The new contract requires all employees to join the union as a condition of employment.

One witness against Dries, who has a long criminal record, was State Police Corp. Donald C. Beal, who with Sgt. Thomas V. Devlin, officer in charge at Jeffersonville, conducted the marathon questioning that led to his admitting the string of crimes.

Corp. Bealcraft told the court that Dries had been highly cooperative with police, after he was arrested.

Dries bore this out by freely admitting his guilt when he took the stand.

When Dries was arrested, the troopers found a revolver and burglary tools in his car.

THE COUNTY school thefts were committed the past May 30. He got nothing at Pottstown, $10 in cash and a ring worth $15 at East Greenville.

All but three of his 22 burglaries were of schools. He commuted from Baltimore.

Jeffersonville station has reported that a total of 30 burglaries have been solved by arrests it made this month in the Pottstown area.

The petition was circulated by Henry Dozier, secretary of the Pottstown chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, following a meeting of Hemlock row owners on Aug. 14.

Passage of the street ordinance by council is expected to pave the way for installation of sanitary and storm sewers and the institution of garbage collection in Hemlock row, which are among the improvements demanded by residents.

Pottstown's Prides

Another in the series of beautiful homes that make Pottstown warm

George Paul Trost, owner of this partially-prefabricated home at 930 North Evans street, did most of the on-the-site work himself, after a regular foundation was dug. Trost, a foundry trainee for Stanley C. Flagg and company, put together the lower part of the house, which arrived from Glen Falls, N. Y., in four-foot sections. The upper part of the house was built by ordinary methods. Trost did not do the plastering or wiring. The house has a living room, dining room, kitchen, paneled den and powder room downstairs. Upstairs are three bedrooms and a bath. Mr. and Mrs. Trost laid out most of the room plan themselves. The house was built between April, 1951, and the past November, even though Trost had to work on it after his day at the plant or on weekends. On the front step in the photo is the Trost's dog, "Tuffy."

reunion prospect. Getting travel papers has not been much of a problem, Miss Krigolo said, but packing has. They need enough clothes for two weeks aboard the Queen Elizabeth and for four weeks in Britain, their first stop, and France.

Mrs. Krigolo has been corresponding regularly over the years with her brother and sister, and has fairly recent photographs of both, as they have of her. Mrs. Krigolo and her brother look as much alike as twins, the daughter reported.

MRS. KRIGOLO, who came with her husband to Stowe in 1918, planned two years ago to go abroad by airplane, but she became seriously ill just before this trip was to start.

Wentzel, a 29-year-old clerk for Doehler-Jarvis corporation, will visit two Englishmen whom he met during World War II when they were in the British Navy and were entertained at the home of a brother-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. V. Herbert Price, with whom Wentzel lives.

Dr. Longaker said, "Polio generally is accepted as a virus disease." He added the little girl had no symptoms of polio until yesterday afternoon.

MISS MIKLUSAK was taken to Montgomery hospital in a Good Will ambulance manned by William Tosto and Hiram Keim.

Yesterday's case was the first in Pottstown or Stowe this year. Five of the previous cases originated in Roversford and Spring City.

The most recent case reported was that of Wilma Buchholz, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. State Police Corp. Donald C. Beal, who with Sgt. Thomas V. Devlin, officer in charge at Jeffersonville, conducted the marathon questioning that led to his admitting the string of crimes.

SCHOOL JOINTURE—

proposed for the agreement which stated the separation could be effected when the daily enrollment reached 1000 to 1200 pupils.

An unfinished auditorium gym in Pottstown being built by a municipal authority and which the school board had hoped to utilize for school activities may yet find a place in the jointure plans, Montgomery County Schools Superintendent A. M. Kulp told reporters last night.

PENNNSBURG SCHOOL DIRECTORS reportedly were concerned that the auditorium-gym would not be used extensively if Pottstown agreed to the jointure and its construction would be to no avail.

Kulp said State Department of Public Instruction approval of the building might be obtained. He indicated the jointure then would pay for the remainder of the building with the aid of State appropriations.

East Greenville, Red Hill and Upper Hanover had announced the past Friday they would meet last night either to act on a jointure agreement they had signed the past March or form a seven-district jointure with the four remaining boards.

The four boards the week previous had not signified their intentions of signing the joint agreement. Kulp persuaded East Greenville, Red Hill and Upper Hanover to make a last appeal to the four other boards.

After almost three hours of numerous discussions among Wallace M. Keely and Raymond Pearlstone, solicitors for East Greenville and Red Hill and Green Lane, Marlborough and Summeytown, respectively, Kulp and the 32 directors present last night, the boards agreed to the jointure.

THE DISCUSSIONS, at seven tables in the library and an adjoining hallway, resulted in East Greenville decreasing the amount of money it would accept for its old buildings in order to effect the jointure.

The price dropped within the three hours from approximately $225,845 to $150,000. The other six boards agreed to pay that sum over a 40-year period to East Greenville because the buildings in question would become the property of the jointure.

Six districts will pay Pottstown an annual sum tentatively set at $1000 for the use of its school to house Junior High school pupils. This money will be paid only until those pupils can be absorbed by the East Greenville High school.

THE SEVEN districts will share the $5400 annual rental paid the East Greenville holding company which constructed the high school in East Greenville.

All payments made by jointure members will be prorated on the basis of the market value of their assessable property.

Payments to East Greenville for its old buildings will mean, said Kulp, approximate millage increases of 1.5 in Green Lane, 1.7 in Marlborough, 1.1 in Pottstown, 1.3 in Red Hill and 1.8 each in Summeytown and Upper Hanover.

The revenue will result in an approximate three-mill cut in East Greenville, he said.

Green Lane's current millage is 15. Marlborough's 28. Pottstown's 30. Red Hill's 27. Summeytown's 17. Upper Hanover's 18 and East Greenville's 32.

Reading: 14 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Also surviving are a brother, Charles Hatt, Detroit, a sister, Lydia, wife of William Paff, Reading, and a sister, Louise, Wildwood, N. J.

Arrangements in charge of a Reading funeral home were incomplete early this morning.

Comradeship Extends Among Play Leaders

The playground season in Pottstown is over but the good fellowship among the leaders goes on.

The former leaders had a get-together-Thursday night at the home of Barbara Cressman, Eschbach, to talk over the past Summer's fun.

A doggie and corn roast scheduled to be held outdoors at the country home had to be held indoors.

At Miss Cressman's home reminiscing over the past playground season were Joan Jacobs, Sandra Skean, Joan Shelling, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Miller, David Towers, Dolores Puhl and Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Manthorne.

MRS. MANTHORNE, playground director, said the games which were planned for the night were forgotten about when the leaders met at the home and began talking.

Dolores Puhl, former leader of Jefferson playground, said she went to the play area one day after it was closed to pick up some equipment and the children flocked around her asking whether the playground had opened again.

David Towers, another leader at Jefferson playground, brought a 1952 playground award that some child had worked hard for all Summer, to gather enough points to win, and then did not appear to pick up his prize.

Mrs. Manthorne said, "We didn't do anything there, just talk and talk. We didn't get anything done we planned to do."

The former leaders enjoyed the talking so much that they plan to have another get-together soon.

HOME BURNS—

but no more," the bachelor said, his eyes resting on the radio. "and those magazines, they were sure good reading."

A day laborer, Knauer had lived in the shack for the past three years, while he did odd jobs for farmers in the area. Prior to that he lived in another shack a little further down the road.

When asked what he planned to do for a house in the future, Knauer said "I just hope I can get some lumber to build a little three-room bungalow I always wanted over in that meadow."

He pointed to a clearing not far from his last home.

"If there's any folks who have some old planks they don't want, I'd sure appreciate them."

As he slowly shuffled away towards the firehouse, he lingered only once to turn for a last look, and muttered, "No more old stoves for me—I'm done with it."

Ex-Local Woman Dies in Reading

Irene Fillman, 71, of Reading, a former resident of Pottstown for 40 years and widow of William H. Fillman, died in St. Joseph's hospital, Reading, last night.

Mrs. Fillman was born in Reading and moved to Pottstown as a youth. She spent her last 22 years in Reading.

She was a member of St. James Lutheran church, Pottstown.

She is survived by the following children: Kathryn, wife of William Miller, Reading; Mary A., wife of Fred H. Trost, Limekiln; Lea A., wife of Woodrow Grooms, Reading; Ella, wife of William Kocivar, Reading.

Planes Pound Polio Positions In Germ War

Two planes winged their way over Royersford yesterday morning, dropping a barrage of BHC solution, a compound of DDT and kerosene, to douse germ laden insects and their nests.

The spraying process, over both Royersford and Spring City, was scheduled to be completed Wednesday but heavy fog delayed the start. Consequently only part of Spring City was dusted Wednesday and the remaining portion on Thursday.

Yesterday the Lehigh Air service planes soared on their mission over Royersford.

The project was ordered by action of the two borough councils, following a recent meeting designed to prevent the spread of polio. The two councils will share the cost.

GI GETS FURLOUGH

Pvt. John P. Sweeney has been home on a 14-day furlough from Ft. Dix, N. J., visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Sweeney, 601 Main street, Royersford. In the services since April, he expects to be sent to Germany after he returns to Ft. Dix, Wednesday.

Early Egyptian methods of preparing a body for preservation required 70 days.

YOUR GEM STORY FOR TODAY

We feel that small free services go a long way in promoting good will between our customers and ourselves. It gives us a good feeling to be able to help our customers with their minor jewelry problems and still be able to say, "No charge for that, stop in again."

Therefore, we thought you might like to know and remember some of the free services which our store does provide: so here are some.

First every single gift that is purchased at our store can be engraved free, while you wait if necessary. The gift is beautifully wrapped with gift paper and ribbon. A card is placed inside and it is even delivered locally or mailed anywhere immediately. So, if you are required to give a gift, you need only to step inside our store, choose the gift, fill out the gift card, and forget about it. We will take care of the rest.

Our beautiful silver punch bowl, ladle and tray are always available for your reception or party, free of charge. We feel that its one of the finest in the area, you'll agree too.

Many people like to shop leisurely and with no thought of being "bullied" into buying something. Our store is noted for its courteous sales people. If you like an item you may buy it and if you don't you can feel free to walk out without being annoyed by a high-pressure salesman.

Then there are the thousands of times each year when we clean jewelry, attach watch bracelets, straighten spectacles, and give gemological advice on antique jewelry. At all times we say, "No charge neighbor, stop in again sometime."

So you can plainly see why it will pay you to stop in to see us soon.

See you next Saturday, W. L. Stone, R. J. Gemologist

Keeps Plane Shipshape

Alvin Renninger, Limerick, stands by his 65-horsepower, two-place Cessna that he's kept in this kind of shipshape condition since he bought it second-handed in 1940. The airplane has taken him to Cuba and back for a total cost of $61.85. He keeps the plane at Pottstown airport, Limerick.

LIMERICK PILOT—

of air crashes. His scrapbooks include clippings on most major ones. He was at the Cleveland air races in 1950 when Bill Odum, "round-the-world flyer," was killed and Wesley G. Nyce, who was killed in an airplane three years ago, was Renninger's instructor.

Renninger has never had a crash himself.

During World War II, partial color blindness kept him from being a pilot but couldn't keep him out of the air. He flew frequently as an armament man on both fighters and cargo ships while stationed at Sarasota, Fla.

Renninger said flying a private airplane in the prescribed manner was far safer than driving. "It's not safe on the roads," he declared. "Not with these hot rods on the loose."

Goodrich Workers
Vote to End Strike
Affecting Oaks Plant

CIO United Rubber Workers employed at the S. F. Goodrich company plants in Akron, Ohio voted yesterday to end a 13-day strike, which has affected 1080 workers at the company's Oaks plant.

At the time of the announcement,
late last night, the Oaks Local 251, was still one of seven across the nation which had not forwarded its vote on the strike issue.

Francis Maile, president of the Oaks union, was among the 2200 who attended the meeting where the vote was "overwhelmingly" in favor of accepting a new contract providing incent hourly wage boosts and other improvements. Kenneth Oldham, president of Goodrich
Local 5, said

Goodrich plant workers at Marion, Ohio, also ratified the strike-ending agreement upon a headquarters in Akron reported last night. Still to be heard from were local unions at plants in Los Angeles, Cadillac, Mich.; Clarksville, Tenn.; Miami, Okla.; Tuscaloosa, Ala.; and Riverside, N. J.

In all, 16,000 workers have been involved in the walkout. Production is to resume as soon as three more Goodrich locals report their members have accepted the new contract.

TRAVELER RETURNS—

"I left Germany in the bad
years after the first World War," she said. "There was no work and money was almost worthless."

"Today, things are almost as bad, except the people over there can get anything they want and Americans are helping the German people very much."

THE STORE Travel agency, 233
High street made arrangements for Mrs. Walch's trip.

"It was wonderful. I took off in a big airplane carrying 85 other passengers one day and the next day we were in Frankfurt."

"At the airport my two brothers and their wives and children met me with bouquets of carnations, the biggest and reddest I ever saw."

That was the first time I saw either of my brothers for more than 25 years.

Mrs. Walch said she took a trip down the Rhine with her brothers for the first time in her life.

"I lived in Germany over 10 years," she laughed, "and I saw more of the country in ten weeks than I saw during all those years."

"It was so beautiful. The air was so dry, dry in the mountains, not like here."

"UP HIGH in the Alps you could

"They have changed a great deal. Frankfurt and other cities were badly damaged during the last war."

The change in the country was not only physical but also in the attitudes of the people, she said.
The people in Germany are worried about the possibility of another

With a shrug she dismissed the subject and said, "I only went back to Germany to see my brothers.
I wanted to see some of Germany,
too, because I was curious."

"I WOULDN'T want to live there, though. I couldn't ever live there.
It's a lovely country but they just don't have the things there that we have in the United States."

"When you want hot water at my brother's house you have to put a kettle of water on the stove and there don't have automatic heat. When you want to get warm there in the winter you have to go down in a damp cellar and shovel coal."

Shaking her head she said, "No,
I could never live there. I'm too spoiled in the United States. This is my home and I don't think I'll ever visit my old home again."

MOTORIST HURT
In Truck Crash

A 31-year-old motorist was injured slightly yesterday at 2:30
p. m. when his sedan collided with a truck on Route 663, north of

Author Explains Responsibilities Facing Writers

The responsibility of the writer in the present world was discussed by author and traveler Claire Huchet Bishop before an audience of 35 at Fellowship House Farm, Farleysville, last night.

"A novelist cannot write just what he pleases," declared Mrs. Bishop. "He must keep in mind the problems of the world and the movement and suffering of human beings."

Mrs. Bishop, a native of Brittany, offered a comparison of American and British children.

"The French child when he is alone in an adult situation is extremely courteous and observant," she explained. "However, in a group he is difficult to manage and is cruel and critical."

The American child, she said, is not as courteous as the French youngster, but is easier to reach.

In a group, American children have remarkable gentleness and openness," she remarked.

A noted children's story-teller, Mrs. Bishop explained that she doesn't attempt to cram ideology into the minds of youngsters, "but behind each story is a concern for other human beings and the well-fare of the world."

She said today's child is too dependent on mechanical methods of entertainment and has little time for thought.

Malik Asserts Eisenhower Is Warmonger

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—Russia applied the Soviet warmonger tag to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today and said he was campaigning for President with a threat of making world war.

The brief thrust here, in concert with an attack on Eisenhower in Moscow today by the Communist party paper Pravda, was made by chief Delegate Jacob A. Malik, a deputy foreign minister.

Malik's long speech rejected—as expected—the Western powers' idea for a big five arms reduction parity, and then, as usual in such rejections, laid blame elsewhere for failure to reduce the world's armaments.

Malik accused Eisenhower, in his speech to the American Legion the past Monday, of "trying to make his mark as a warmonger." But what Malik said Eisenhower did tell the convention on matters of preparedness against Soviet aggression.

"General Eisenhower, Republican candidate for president, speaking to the American Legion, told them with cynical candor that the basis of his foreign policy, if elected, would be a mad armaments race and likewise the unleashing of a third world war," Malik said.

EISENHOWER ACTUALLY told the Legion that America needs security forces "whose destructive and retaliatory power is so great that it causes nightmares in the Kremlin whenever they think of attacking us."

Malik is returning to Moscow soon for reassignment and is being replaced here, it was disclosed Wednesday, by Valerian A. Zorin, also a deputy foreign minister, who ran the Czechoslovak Communist coup of 1948 as Russian ambassador to Prague.

Zorin will arrive here from Moscow in the midst of the American presidential campaign.

The UN Secretariat, the house-keeping and executive branch headed by Secretary-General Trygve Lie, has sought in the past to reduce as far as possible the use of UN forums for sounding off on a candidate in a domestic election.

Pravda Coincides Attack on Ike, Says He Threatens Russia

MOSCOW, Aug. 29 (AP)—Pravda, official newspaper of the Russian Communist party, today accused Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower of threatening the Soviet Union.

Pravda made it clear in a front-page editorial that the USSR will reject any American get-tough with Russia policy.

The paper said some of Eisenhower's statements to the American Legion in New York were "comical."

(In his Legion address, Eisenhower advocated a strong American policy to counter Communist aggression. The General cited the various countries in Europe and Asia which he said had fallen under the "Russian yoke." He declared the American people "can never rest—and we must so inform all the world, including the Kremlin, until the enslaved nations of the world have in the fullness of freedom the right to choose their own path.")

PRAVDA ACCUSED Eisenhower of threatening the USSR and added that when this "American fighting man" declares grandiloquently what the Americans "must tell the Soviets coolly and conclusively," then "one wants first of all to advise him: 'Drink some cold water. Ike, to reduce as far as possible the use of UN forums for sounding off on a candidate in a domestic election.'"

Hunted Criminal Is Still at Large

PACIFIC, Mo., Aug. 29 (AP)—The Missouri Highway patrol was forced to give up today on its man-hunt for elusive William Merle Martin, who is on the FBI's 10-most-wanted list of criminals.

The patrol, which started the intensive manhunt Wednesday night, using bloodhounds and a spotter plane, pulled its men off the search today because of the pressing need for the patrolmen to direct holiday weekend traffic.

The search in rugged, wooded country of west St. Louis county was continued by sheriff's deputies and volunteers.

Skirmish Is Lost by Whites

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Aug. 29 (AP)—Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan's White supremacy Government lost a skirmish today over the legality of the high court of Parliament it set up in June as the nation's top tribunal on constitutional questions.

The Cape division of the South African Supreme court ruled unanimously that an act setting up Parliament as a high court was null and void and that any decisions given under the act likewise would have no legal force.

It turned thumbs down on a Government-sponsored Jim Crow law to cut the voting rights that 50,000 Cape coloreds (mixed bloods) have held under the constitution for 42 years.

The Government gave notice of appeal to the highest organ of the regular South African judiciary, the appeals court which sits in Bloemfontein.

A REVERSE there might lead Malan to appeal finally to the Nationalist-dominated Parliament to sit in judgment on its own legality as a court, counting on the same Senate and House votes which approved the original act by narrow majorities the past Spring.

Political observers, however, do not rule out a possibility that Malan might call a general election in an effort to settle the dust of a constitutional crisis that has led to demonstrations, rioting and a threat of graver civil strife. This nation of 12 million, where Whites are outnumbered five to one, has been restive and tense for months.

In Johannesburg the prime minister, a staid, 78-year-old apostle of Apartheid (racial segregation), said he could not comment on the court judgment "until I have studied the position."

J. G. N. Strauss, leader of the opposition United party, said the judgment shows constitutional guarantees are still valid and "cannot be circumvented by dubious means."

"The state of the country is so uncertain and such dangerous tensions exist that, in the name of the great majority of the people, I call on the Government to abide by the law of the constitution," he said.

RATE REDUCTION ASKED HARRISBURG, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Metropolitan Edison company, New York, Rep. Adam Clayton Reading, today asked the Public Power (D-N.Y.), acting spokesman, to authorize a 2 percent rate reduction for the company's customers, effective Oct. 1.

Dozen Negro Leaders Give Adlai Support

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 29 (AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson today received support from more than a dozen Negro leaders in at least five key States.

The Democratic presidential candidate said he had received "very good reaction" in private talks in New York on civil rights.

After a three-day series of conferences and speeches in New York and New Jersey, the Governor said he was "very much pleased with the vibrant enthusiasm of the people I met."

Stevenson said he plans to start work immediately on his Labor Day speech at Detroit, billed as the opening speech of his official campaign.

War Frauds Investigated by House Group

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP)—House investigators today delved into the record of a Detroit war frauds case dropped by the Justice department after seven years of maneuvering—despite efforts of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to bring it to trial.

Poring over department files, a House judiciary subcommittee found Hoover first asked about a definite trial date in March, 1947, almost four years after the Justice department started looking into the case.

Hoover noted at that time that defense attorneys were making "a series of parades" to the Justice department. He also said he had heard reports of political pressure in the case. There was no elaboration of this point.

The case involved Norman E. Miller, head of a Detroit engineering firm, bearing his name, which had war contracts. Miller was indicted in July, 1944, on a charge of padding time slips to defraud the Government of $14,000. The case was dropped in 1950.

Hoover didn't get an answer to his 1947 inquiry for a month, according to correspondence read into the record.

David Suffered for His Sins, But Then Repented

A Great King Gave In to Temptation The Golden Text

King David
"Create in me a clean heart, O God; And renew a right spirit within me."—Psalm 51:10.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

KING DAVID was not a perfect man. He was tempted and fell even as you and I. His great sins, which angered Jehovah, were adultery and murder, both of which in an ordinary man would have meant death. There was no one in his kingdom who had the power to condemn him, however, but he was punished severely, the result of these crimes following him all through his life. Jehovah forgave him, however, because he was truly repentant and realized the enormity of his wickedness.

Walking on the roof of his palace, because a beautiful woman bathing. Although she was the wife of another man, Uriah, an officer in David's army, he took her. Then when the husband returned he decided to get rid of him, so he gave the husband a note to Joab, his captain (first having gotten Uriah drunk), telling him to place Uriah in the most dangerous place in the battle line where he certainly would be killed. He was slain, and after a period of mourning, David and the woman, Bathsheba, were wed.

Nathan, the prophet, came to David, and told him a parable about a rich man who had many flocks and herds, and a poor man who had but one ewe lamb, which he treasured like a child. The rich man wished to entertain a traveler, but didn't want to take one of his own flocks and so took the poor man's only lamb, killed it and served it to his guest.

David was furious at the rich man for his action, and said he should not be allowed to live, but Nathan spoke sternly, "Thou art the man."

David was shocked into a realization of his great sin, and bitter remorse followed. Nathan told him that he need not die, but punishment would surely follow. The child that was born of Bathsheba would die, and would never depart from his house. The child of David and Bathsheba did die, and David mourned his death, but he felt it was just punishment, and strength was given him to bear the loss.

The second son born of Bathsheba was Solomon, the wisest and greatest of kings, whose reign was marked by glory.

We are not given the chapters describing the terrible events connected with the revolt of David's son, Absalom, a handsome youth whom David loved dearly. He treacherously conspired to overthrow his father, winning many to his cause, and making it necessary for David and his court to flee from his palace. When, however, David found the Ark of the Covenant had been brought with the royal party, David ordered it carried back, for, he said, that if Jehovah were merciful to him he would come back to Jerusalem, but if God rejected him, "Let Him do to me as seemeth good unto Him."

As David continued his flight, a man of the family of the house of Saul, Shimei, by name, came out and cursed the king, and threw stones at him. One of David's company wanted to kill the man, but David would not let him, saying, "Behold my son, who came forth from my bowels; he hath cursed me, but will I do him harm? Let him curse; for Jehovah hath bidden him." This, too, David must have thought, which he must bear stoically.

Later the man repented and apologized to David, but this was after the revolt of Absalom was quelled. David had given command that Absalom was to be kindly treated when taken, but word came that he had been slain by the king's loyal soldiers.

David was heartbroken at the news for he loved his spoiled and rebellious son dearly. He retired to his chamber, and, casting himself down, he cried, "O my son Absalom, my son, my son Absalom! would I had died for thee, O Absalom, my son, my son!"

So passionate was his outburst of grief that Joab chided him, saying he was shaming his loyal servants who had curbed the rebellion and kept his throne for him.

The last part of our lesson deals with the building of an altar to Jehovah to destroy a plague which the Lord sent as a punishment because David, against Jehovah's wishes, had numbered the people of Israel.

David was commanded to rear an altar on the threshing-floor of Araunah, the Jebusite. Araunah saw the king and his servants coming, and went to meet them, bowing himself to the ground. He offered to give the king the threshing floor and oxen to make the sacrifice, but the king refused, saying, "Nay, but I will verily buy it of thee at a price; neither will I offer burnt offerings unto Jehovah my God which cost me nothing."

So David bought the threshing-floor and the oxen for fifty shekels of silver. The plague was stayed, and the threshing-floor was to be the place where Solomon was to build his temple.

A Humble and Greathearted Leader

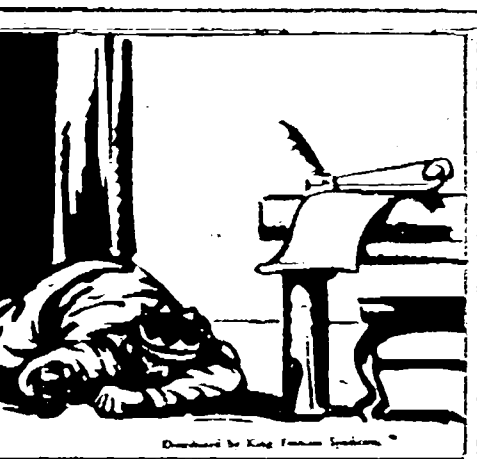

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON By Alfred J. Buescher

David's great sin was when he took Uriah's wife, Bathsheba, and plotted her husband's death. Nathan, the prophet, aroused David's conscience by telling him a parable of a rich man stealing a poor man's only treasure, and when David grew indignant at the rich man, Nathan said thou art the man.

Realizing his sin, David repented. Jehovah forgave him, but promised punishment. Then Absalom, his son, conspired to overthrow his father, and usurp the throne. David fled, and a man of Saul's house met his party, threw stones at the king and cursed him. David would not allow him to be killed.

Absalom's rebellion was quelled and David returned to Jerusalem. When word was brought the king that Absalom had been slain by David's loyal followers, the king mourned greatly, and going to his chamber he cried, "O my son Absalom, my son, my son Absalom, would God that I had died with thee!"

Commanded to build an altar to Jehovah on the threshing floor of Araunah, the Jebusite. David went thither. Araunah wished to give all things needful, but David insisted upon paying. The altar was built on the threshing floor, in the place where Solomon built the temple.

Bible Words to Live by

PSALM 136 - "We sat down by the streams of Babylon and wept there, remembering Zion."

I've liked the Latin cadence of this opening - Super Flumina Babylonis - for the past 30 years. The Jews were in exile and so are we.

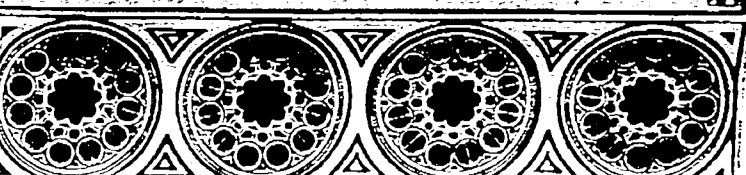

"Willow trees grow there, and on these we hung up our harps . . ."

Every time I see a willow tree I see this picture of sad mankind, and me among them, in exile from Heaven.

The exiled Jews were taunted. They said, "Jerusalem, if I forget thee, perish the skill of my right hand. Let my tongue stick fast to the roof of my mouth if I cease to remember thee, if I find in aught but Jerusalem the fountain head of my content."

Those things usually happen to people who are content with the world. That we have not here a lasting home is one of the roughest lessons to learn.

SCHOOL + PLAYGROUND

Here in America almost every school has a playground. Our American system of public education recognizes the fact that many valuable lessons can be learned better on the playground than in the classroom.

America's churches also have an outstanding system of public education—religious education. And it, too, recognizes the "playground principle."

The playgrounds of our system of religious education reach many miles beyond our churches. They consist of the homes, farms, factories, and offices of the community—every place where boys and girls and men and women have opportunity to practice their Christian religion.

Common sense tells us that playgrounds without schools could not sustain the intellectual level of America. Nor can a busy week—without a Sunday in Church—sustain the spiritual alertness and moral character of individuals.

Attend Church Sunday. Live Your Faith daily!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor in our world for the building of a better world. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four solid reasons why every person should attend the Church. They are: (1) For the children's sake. (2) For the father's sake. (3) For the mother's sake. (4) For the world's sake. The Church is the only place where we can find the answers to our problems. It is the only place where we can find the answers to our problems. It is the only place where we can find the answers to our problems.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 30, 1952

The whole life of man is but a point of time; let us enjoy it, therefore, while it lasts, and not spend it to no purpose.—Plutarch.

Back to Dark Ages
SURELY, no Colebrookdale resident seriously could harbor thoughts of doing physical harm to a school teacher! Surely, such fears of a Reading legal defender of the teacher are unfounded! This is 1952 and not the dark ages! The news that a teacher had been threatened with harm in telephone conversations was astounding. The lawyer obviously knows what he's talking about, for he applied for police protection. If such threats were uttered, the persons making them should be brought to the bar of justice. They should be punished.

There is No Place
HOME, sweet home! George T. Arms, aged Pottstown resident who has looked on the passing scene for more than 84 years, told a pitiful tale of loneliness when he returned to Pottstown the other day. At 82, he pulled up his Pottstown roots and went to Florida. Mr. Arms for those 82 years had taken more than a prominent part in the borough's life. He was an educator, the son of a man who founded a private school here. He was a civic worker, served on borough council and as a justice of the peace. Mr. Arms didn't find to his liking the transition from a sidewalk full of friends to a boulevard crammed with strangers. Florida was just too lonely! So he came home to Pottstown. That's a mighty fine compliment to this fine borough. And Pottstown, too, is glad to see Mr. Arms home!

Biology and Supermen
WRITING in the current Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, a French biologist foresees a day when science may put in our hands powers to change greatly the character of our descendants. We may, for example, be able to determine in advance the sex of children, substitute an incubator for the travail of motherhood, even change, by hormone chemistry, our mental and emotional nature. Most moral men of 1952 would frankly regard such decisions as beyond their right to make. Such powers might be used for great good. But it follows that they could also result in great evil. We'd be afraid of a superman if we could create him. Even if we could be sure he'd be good, life among nice supermen who knew all the answers would be monotonous. But from what preview we have had of supermen in the comic strips, we see little reason to anticipate any real improvement. Far from being good or happy, those interstellar characters seem to get in even more trouble than we do.

Bigotry in the Campaign
It would be as clean and fresh as an evening breeze if the nation could go through this one presidential election campaign without appeals to bigotry and bias. Both the Republican and the Democratic national chairmen have pledged themselves to denounce any injection of religious or race hatreds into the campaign. We hope they both back up the pledge with stern enforcement action all down the line from national to state and local organizations. We further hope the public will back them up by making it plain to the purveyors of group hatred that their noisome commodity is not wanted. Unfortunately, pledges and good intentions at the top do not always counteract this unlovely aspect of political campaigns. Already a Los Angeles Jewish organization has been compelled to issue a statement denouncing "vicious insinuations of anti-Semitism" against Senator Nixon of California, the Republican nominee for Vice President. The same organization has declared there is no basis for any bigotry charges against Eisenhower, Nixon, Stevenson or Sparkman. Probably the dirty whispers will continue to circulate about all the candidates and concerning all groups and creeds. But it would be pleasant, and mighty refreshing, if this one campaign could be kept on a higher plane.

Teen-Agers Appeal
To the Editors: I think we youth of Pottstown should have a teen-age center. I would like to thank the mother who wrote the letter, ("Give Kids a Break," Readers Say August 25). I hope the YMCA or YWCA acts on getting a teen-age center for Pottstown. Pottstown certainly needs something. Even a little town like Pennsburg has a teen-center for its teen-agers. The YMCA dances were stopped during the summer. That meant there weren't many places for us teen-agers to get together since school was dismissed. Many teen-agers went to the Reading YMCA dances on Saturday nights. I have talked to several other teen-agers and they agree a teen-age center would be a big success.

WASHINGTON

Chapman May Alienate Conservation Democrats

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—A Stevenson decision which may alienate conservative Democrats in several politically important sections of the country, especially in the East, Middle West and South, has escaped the consideration it deserves, although it has become a matter of deep concern at Springfield, Ill. It is the Democratic nominee's selection of Oscar Chapman of Denver as a member of his 11-man, personal campaign committee. The Secretary of the Interior is the only member of the Truman Cabinet to be so honored. Chapman's friends regard it as a sign that he may be retained in his present post, if the Democrats win next November.

The conservatives' chagrin over Chapman's key role derives from their knowledge that he is the only Cabinet member who subscribes 100 percent to the more extreme implications of the "Truman fair deal," as he did to Franklin D. Roosevelt's "new deal." A protégé of the late Harold L. Ickes, Chapman believes with Truman in almost unlimited government control in many fields, social and economic. It was on Truman's suggestion that Stevenson chose Chapman.

He advocates such federal expansion of public power that, in the opinion of opponents, it would mean either competitive destruction of the private utilities, $25,000,000,000 investment, or their absorption by the government at near-confiscatory prices. Although his efforts along this line have been rebuffed by the courts and Congress, he refuses to abandon them.

PHILOSOPHY: Once, in commenting on a Supreme Court decision favoring his claim to broad jurisdiction over natural resources, Chapman declared that the court had pointed the way to federal intervention in every industrial field. It was this opinion which led Truman, several years ago, to threaten to build steel plants, if private companies did not expand capacity.

In fact, it was this Truman-Chapman philosophy which inspired the President to contend that he possessed "inherent powers" to seize the steel industry during the recent strike. Both Ickes and Chapman, as fuel cravers exercised this power over the coal miners on several occasions, also using their authority to raise wages during the period of government occupation.

Chapman is a "big government" advocate, which Stevenson says he is not. In accord with his theory of government control of natural resources, Chapman spearheads the Administration movement for federal ownership of oil, tidelands, a sensitive subject in California, Texas and Louisiana. Although Stevenson wants a settlement satisfactory to all claimants, Chapman is a "no compromise" man on this subject.

CONSULTANT: Although born in Virginia, the Secretary of the Interior is the leader of the anti-segregation drive in the District of Columbia. He aims to make the nation's capital a model for similar lifting of racial restrictions throughout the country. He insists on non-segregation in Washington's parks, playgrounds, swimming pools, schools, fire departments, etc. He has currently involved Stevenson in this controversy. Against considerable opposition, he has named Dr. Joseph D. Lohman of Chicago as head of the new National Capital Planning Commission. Lohman has served as Stevenson's adviser on racial relations.

The appointment has stirred protests because, as Chapman's racial consultant several years ago, Lohman accused Washington business men of "promoting segregation for business purposes." When his recommendations led to minor riots at several swimming pools, he conducted a course for instructing Interior's park police on how to handle such outbreaks.

I don't think you have been reading any of the fashion magazines lately or you wouldn't have made that impudent remark about hair styles of the young girls. Get up to date on the latest, dearie. This is 1952 not 1942. Dungarees and your so-called horse-tail are worn nationwide. You don't have to come off a Bechtelsville farm to be seen dressed like that. The Bechtelsville farms also produce a big percentage of the food you eat, which the so-called country hicks have a lot to do with. You should be thankful for the country hicks instead you are very ungrateful. Wake up and open your eyes! Bechtelsville

THE WORRY CLINIC
By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
WHEN DANNY was seven, he put me on the spot. It was during the winter. I was trying to formulate an outline for an address I was to give at 8 p.m. before a Chicago Parent Teacher Association.

The hour was already 7 p.m. and I hadn't yet shaved or bathed. Thirteen year-old George meanwhile sat on the edge of my desk posturing me with questions about First Aid, for he wanted to undergo a merit badge test thereon that same evening for the Boy Scouts.

So I was growing more nervous every second. At this hectic instant Mrs. Crane rushed into my study to protest that the pipe on the furnace had come apart when she turned the damper therein. Why didn't you leave the damper alone? I spoke sharply. "You don't need to turn it to damper the fire." "But why have a damper if it isn't to be used?" she came back at me. "Just open that iron door on top of the furnace and it will do the same things as the damper," I answered.

"Besides, you knew that pipe was about to fall apart. Now I must waste another five minutes, and I'm due at the meeting at 8 o'clock!" "What did you marry her for if you are always going to argue with her?" Danny broke into our debate, apparently in all seriousness. "If you don't love her, why did you marry her?"

This sudden and unexpected comment broke the tension. Both Mrs. Crane and I had to smile. "Oh, I love her all right," I replied. "Just because I argue with her, doesn't mean I don't love her."

"You quarrel with David, too, don't you, but that doesn't mean you don't love him, does it?" Danny got my point and went on with his play. His interruption of our debate might have been done just to get me into a dilemma, for he was a foxy boy and on several occasions had tried to trap me like this.

But it is always wise for parents to countermand their evidences of quarreling by visible signs of affection. Parents should thus kiss each other in front of their children! They should show tangible fondness for each other. A child is more inclined to take his cues from your actions than from your words.

very rare event, that it's not necessarily expensive or a luxury denied to most people at most times.

These articles prove that flying can be a part of everyday life, and show how some day, going places by air will be just as common, but much more convenient and fast, than driving along crowded highways in a car.

State's Too Rough
To the Editor: It seems to me that the State Game commission is a little rough on that man they arrested for collecting a few dollars' bounty money for a fox they say was killed too long ago to collect on.

I can see why they would refuse to pay him the bounty, but I think it is a little strong to drag him before a justice of the peace. For one thing, it is always possible that the fur experts made a mistake. For another thing, if they started fining everybody for every little misstatement of fact, we'd all be broke.

'CRACKING PROCESS'

Hollywood

By EDITH GWYN

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29—Wanna know why the Van Johnsons lost out on their invitation to join the director Henry Hathaway's in Europe for the next couple weeks? It was because Metro thinks V. J. should spend the next month rehearsing on the drums for his role in "Remains To Be Seen," in which he co-stars with June Allyson. But the picture doesn't roll till October! Van, being the good musician he is, rehashes doesn't need four weeks to prep for the mere four numbers he'll fake for the film! Well, as the cliché goes, "Thass show-business for ya!" Evie Johnson started playing her herein-mentioned "bit" in "Never Wave At A Wave" yesterday. Tells us she's another who forgot to pay up years of dues in the actors union. So the part will cost her more in paid-up membership than she draws for the stint. But heck, you only live TWICE!

PLEASURE TO SAY Mickey Rooney takes off for Korea this weekend to entertain our troops. Ukke Sherie, Alice Tyrell and Dick Winslow go along. Marie Windsor is Korea-bound for the same wonderful reason 24 hours ahead of The Mick. The way Marie Lanza keeps doing that "disappearing act"—maybe RE'S the one Paramount should be starring in "Mondini." However, in all fairness, there IS something (business-wise) to be said for the singer's side. MGM will evidently find it out the hard way!

IT HAPPENED TODAY
1781—French fleet arrived in Chesapeake bay to further American independence. 1832 — Hermann Goering elected Reichstag president. 1945 — Gen. Douglas MacArthur landed in Japan.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY
Motion picture stars Joan Blondell, Fred McMurrow and Raymond Massey should be having happy birthdays today.

On Sunday, Aug. 31, we greet Ex-Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands on her birthday, also actor Frederic March and William Saroyan, author and playwright.

HOW'D YOU MAKE OUT?
1. A male Gentile.
2. In the Netherlands.
3. One who writes from dictation.

ALL AROUND THE TOWN

Just Never Right... His Tree A Bloomer...

FOOLED—Dr. Emil Schorsch, rabbi of Congregation Mercy and Truth, tells an anecdote on the Rev. A. H. Simpson, pastor emeritus of the First Presbyterian church. The Rev. Simpson, at the synagogue's 25th anniversary service humorously related how he had been invited to attend the dedication services for the synagogue 25 years ago. Since the weather was not too inviting, he decided to wear his oldest hat, on the understandable idea that it had to be taken off anyway. How shocked he was when somebody in the synagogue approached him: "Keep your hat on, please." So he sat down in the last row, hoping not to be noticed, but suddenly a voice from the pulpit called him to the front, and there he felt terrible all the time visible with his old hat. Now, 25 years later, he didn't make the same mistake. This time he put on his best hat and proudly entered the synagogue, only to be "approached again: "Wouldn't you like to take your hat off and wear this skullcap instead?" Needless to tell how the congregation enjoyed this hat-story, charmingly told.

WON'T GIVE UP—Chester Miller, who lives along Route 42, near Kenilworth, Pottstown RD 1, reported his magnolia tree is blooming for the third time this year. He said the 3-year-old tree did the same thing the past year. The blossoms are red. You probably have never looked at it that way, but one of the slowest-moving pieces of machinery we have is built into your automobile. It's the wheel of the speedometer which turns only once every 10,000 miles.

HELPFUL HARRY—Not all you gents are going away this Labor Day holiday. Some of you will be working on the family car, so here are a couple of hints: To keep water from entering the brakes during the car washing, just set the brakes! For an exceedingly high polish, regardless of age, apply some cornstarch with a cheesecloth right after you've waxed your pride and joy. You'll get a shiny glow that will amaze you. Add a little petroleum jelly to the plated parts of the back after shining them. It leaves a thin film that will protect the metal from moisture. For some fancy nails on which to hang things in your garage, drive the nails through Jarz corks lengthwise and then into the wall. Gives you a lot of protection and a better hanging device than a nail alone.

SATURDAY SNICKER—A Frenchman in London, informed by a friend that he was attending the silver wedding celebration of a relative, asked: "Tell me, what is this silver wedding? I do not understand." "Well," the Englishman explained, "My uncle and aunt have lived together for 25 years without ever having separated." The Frenchman beamed: "Ah," he said, "And now he marry her?"

SWEET TOOTH—Now an expert says that third or fourth lump of sugar in your coffee is wasted. Two lumps will make the brew twice as sweet as one. But the third and fourth just show up at the waistline. The punster at the next desk is superpatriotic. He says it was written for this county and calls the title "Montgomery, City of the." Diamonds may be a girl's best friend, but they're turning out to be a pain in the neck for home owners who have those flossy glass doors at the entrances. Scores of doors now bear permanent scars inflicted by diamond-wearing passers-through. Kitchens in new homes are about to have a very important change in that great institution known as the kitchen sink. Latest model is a round job placed right in the center of the kitchen. Time and motion engineers acclaim it as many times more efficient than the azin-the-wall type.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

THE INJECTION method is frequently the best way of giving medicines. Physicians often choose this method when they are seeking prompt, highly active results. Some people have an unreasonable fear of simple injections. But the opposite is perhaps more common in these days when insulin injections are used regularly by people everywhere. Many have become so used to them that they think anyone can give them. Certain injections may be given only by a doctor or trained nurse, and no one should give himself an injection of any kind unless he has been carefully instructed.

With any type of injection, there is always a slight risk of causing some damage to the tissues. Injections in the arm are more likely to produce complications than those in the thigh. This is why most physicians prefer to give injections in the thigh.

Special care must be taken to avoid injecting too close to nerves. Just the tissues supplied by these nerves may be paralyzed. Many times a drooping wrist, or paralysis of the muscles of the hands, may follow careless injections of medicine into the arm.

The paralysis is usually temporary, however, and the person will recover full function of the muscles with proper physical therapy and exercises. Frequently it may be necessary to keep the muscles active by electrical stimulation while the damaged nerves that serve them are regrowing. It usually takes about four months for muscles to regain their proper strength. This type of paralysis can follow the injection of any substance into the muscle. When an injection in the thigh comes too close to the sciatic nerve, it can also cause paralysis of this nerve. In giving these facts, I do not mean to suggest that anyone should refuse injections of medicine given by his physician. Physicians and nurses are trained to know the proper sites of injection. When the proper precaution is taken, it is only a very rare person who develops complications.

Prayer for the Week

By GEN. JAMES A. VAN FLEET

Almighty God, Fountain of all goodness; Source of all help, we praise Thee for Thy wonderful works. We thank Thee for Thy guidance, providence and Thy saving help. We seek Thy benign mercy for those destitute, wounded, dying, despondent, and sinful.

Spring City Man Weds Miss Alice Helen Kovacs

Hungarian Evangelical and Reformed church, Phoenixville, was the scene of the recent marriage of Miss Alice Helen Kovacs, daughter of Mr. John Kovacs, Phoenixville, to Mr. Jay Robert Moyer, 224 Bridge street, Spring City.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. George Shirey, Girardville, and the Rev. Imre Kovacs, Charlestown, in a setting of palms, white gladioli and chrysanthemums. Traditional wedding selections were presented by Mrs. Mary Ravis, vocal soloist and Mr. Ferdinand Malenke organist.

For her wedding day the bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of white skinner satin styled with a fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline embroidered with seed pearls and a full skirt extending into a train.

FROM A tiara of seed pearls fell her fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of white pompons and chrysanthemums.

Miss Rose Marie Kovacs, Charlestown, niece of the bride, was maid of honor in a yellow organdy over taffeta gown fashioned with fitted bodice and gathered skirt. She carried a Colonial bouquet of yellow and orchid pompons and chrysanthemums.

Serving as bridesmaid was Mrs. Elizabeth Plavcan, Norristown, who was gownned in an orchid gown styled like the one worn by the honor attendant. Her bouquet also was of yellow and orchid pompons and chrysanthemums.

MR. GEORGE Walters, Spring City, was best man and ushers were Messrs. Karl Woodward, and James O'Conner, both of Spring City.

The mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. Moyer, wore an afternoon

Picnic Is Enjoyed By Emmanuel Class At Boone Homestead

The Young Adult class of Emmanuel Lutheran church recently held their monthly meeting in the form of a picnic at Daniel Boone Homestead.

A scripture reading opened the meeting followed by the reading of the minutes of the last meeting.

Plans were made for a skating party to be held after promotion Sunday which is the last Sunday in October. It was decided to present a Christian flag on either the second Sunday in September, which is Rally Day, or Reformation Sunday, the last Sunday in October.

Middy Line

The middy look is certainly making itself seen this season. It has even invaded the fine wool knit field, and a very new and welcome addition it is. Rosanna does this middy look job in a fine wool knit with a hand-made look. The middy line has been taken from a sailor's suit, British version. The triangular effect sailor collar and the filled-in V neckline are two high fashion points of the short-sleeved top. Shown in coral the dress has a narrow stripe of navy blue at the drop waist, and around both the collar and sleeves for a neat finishing touch and color contrast.

If the mercury in a thermometer separates, it can sometimes be reunited by tapping the thermometer, bulb down, in your hand. If this fails, put the thermometer in the freezing compartment of the refrigerator. The cold should draw the liquid into the bulb.

Executive Board of Franklin PTA Meets In President's Home

Thursday afternoon the executive board of the Franklin Parent-Teacher association met at the home of its president, Mrs. William Hurter, 1935 North Washington street.

The budget, finance, and program for the year were set up by the board. Announcement was made that two members of the board will be sent to the PTA state convention to be held at Pocono Manor, Oct. 21 and 22. It was urged that all executive board and committee members attend the PTA school of instruction, Sept. 6.

A covered dish dinner will be held at the Franklin school on the night of the first open PTA meeting, Sept. 15.

It was decided to hold open meetings the third Monday of each month and executive board meetings the second Thursday of each month at 8 o'clock.

Members present were: Mrs. John Leslie, budget and finance chairman; Mrs. Nels Dikks, co-chairman; Mrs. William Gardner, program chairman; Mrs. Edward Hunicutt, secretary; Mrs. Thomas Henry, treasurer; Mrs. Stephen Grady, home room chairman; Mrs. Ralph Baldwin, hospital chairman; Mrs. Morris Gavin, publicity chairman; and Mrs. Henry Knopp, co-chairman.

Advice to the Lovelorn

Does Her Husband Really Love Her?

One of the problems with which a great many wives have to cope is the one presented by an undemonstrative husband. There may be nothing else whatever in her marriage with which the wife can find fault. She may have a comfortable home, no money worries, and her husband may never give her cause to suspect him of being attentive to other women. Yet in spite of all this, the wife may be acutely unhappy, as is the case described as follows by one such woman:

"I'm 25, have been married nearly three years and have a year old son.

"For over a year now my husband hasn't kissed me on the lips, nor told me he loves me. When I ask him if he loves me, all he does is to say, 'Sometimes.' Last week we had a slight argument, and I told him if he was tired of me to say so and I'd take the baby and leave. He just grinned and said, 'Where would you go? No one would take you in.' All this makes me feel that he doesn't want me any longer, but he won't say so.

"I LOVE MY husband and I hate to think of leaving him, but I have feelings and I need affection so badly. I try to kiss him and show him how much I love him, but he won't let me be loving to him. He is ten years older than I am, but I don't see why this should make any difference.

"Will you please tell me what to do? Something has to happen, and soon, as I cannot go on like this. I know I could leave home and get a job doing housework some place where they would let me keep my child with me, but I can't bear to think of breaking up my home."

Now it's very hard for women who are demonstrative themselves, and to whom frequent little gestures of affection and words of love mean so much, to understand why their husbands are not the same way. Frequently such women say to me: "When he was courting me, it wasn't like this. It's only been since we've been married that my husband doesn't show me affection."

I THINK this troubled young wife is probably quite mistaken in feeling that her husband doesn't want her around any longer. What I do think is that, like so many other men, he expects a wife to take his love for granted, and it would seem to me sensible for her to assume that this is the whole trouble and to try and adjust to it, unless and until she finds real reason to believe something else is wrong. I'm not belittling the importance of this particular problem to any wife, for it is certainly frustrating to a woman to be brushed off when she longs to express and receive affection. But I think her best plan right now is to put up with the situation for a while and throw all her energies into making her home as happy a place as possible. Instead of brooding over her yearning for the tang-$110,000 in Desserts?

Just as Sweet—And Filling

By JOE KANE

Minneapolis, Aug. 29 (AP) — What does $110,000 worth of dessert taste like?

It tastes just as sweet as $110,000, and every bit as filling—even in these inflationary times.

Five desserts with this price tag on them were dished up here today as five winners of the annual bake-off of a famous company in New York met to form a "Cook of the Year" club.

THIS REPORTER went to the feast on an empty stomach—and barely made it back to the office.

All I ate was:

Chocolate cake, $25,000 prize winner. Thick chocolate frosting and candied mint leaves.

"Net twist" dessert rolls ($50,000). Topped with nuts, sugar and cinnamon.

ORANGE CAKE ($25,000). Sugared frosting with nuts.

"Cherry winks" cookies ($5,000). Loaded with red cherries and nuts.

"Apple orchard" pie ($5,000). Lots of whipped cream.

A gob of pink ice cream in the form of a rose. Not a prize-winner. All we had before dessert was a big chicken lunch.

The five prize winners—four housewives and a "mother's helper" cook—had lots to talk about.

THEY EXCHANGED "inside" baking tips, stories on how they had spent their prize money, and recalled chit-chat they had with the Duchess of Windsor, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Margaret Truman—who had presented the awards.

The five charter members of the club are:

Mrs. Ralph E. Smalfield, Rockford, Ill., whose desert rolls won top honors at the first bake-off in 1949. The wife of an electrical engineer, she has invested her $50,000 in a new home and savings bonds. She lived in Detroit when she won the prize.

Mrs. Peter Wuebel, wife of a baker in Redwood City, Calif., proved too her husband that she could also bake when her orange cake won the $25,000 in 1950. She gave half her prize money to her daughter and used the rest to rebuild her home.

Mrs. Samuel P. Weston, La Jolla, Calif., a Vassar graduate, won $25,000 for her chocolate cake last year. She's saving her winnings to help educate her two sons.

Mrs. Bernard Derosseau, Rice Lake, Wis., won the first $5000 junior cook award in 1950. The 19-year-old mother of three used the winnings to help her laundry truck driver husband pay off the mortgage on their home.

HELEN CONSTANCE Thatcher, Charleston, S. C., was 17 when her apple pie won the $5000 last year. She's using her prize money for college expenses.

This year's bake off for 100 contestants will be early in December at the Waldorf in New York.

If your hair is dry and dull looking, pat on a little brillantine. It will supply luster and make hair easier to manage.

able expressions of love that her husband withholds, and instead of offering to him her own expressions of love which he does not seem to appreciate, she might try showing her devotion by always being bright and cheerful, keeping the house neat and comfortable to come home to and doing lots of little thoughtful things for her husband. It's entirely possible that she has shown her unhappiness over his undemonstrativeness so constantly that, rightly or wrongly, he feels aggrieved and wishes she'd keep still about it. So let her keep still for awhile, and see what happens. She can work off a lot of emotional energy devoting herself to the baby, and to her husband in these unobtrusive ways I have suggested.

As for those remarks of his which she quoted, it sounds to me as though he was just teasing. Why not let it go at that?

It's not at all impossible that if she will adopt the kind of attitude I have been talking about, her husband may gradually notice it and, that in time, it might bring about a change in him. Anyway, I think it would be a big mistake for her to break up her home before trying it out.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Peifer, 322 South street, became the parents of a son yesterday in Memorial hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund T. Frick, Calumet City, Ill., are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, born recently in St. James hospital. Chicago Heights, Ill. Mr. Frick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Frick, 385 North Charlotte street.

Isa Allen Is Honored On Birthday Anniversary

Isa Allen was feted with a party honoring her birthday anniversary recently in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Allen, Pottstown RD 1.

Hostesses were Rosemary Allen and Martha Bean.

Games were played and refreshments served. The dining room was decorated in pink, blue and yellow streamers.

Attending were Peggy Austin, Helen Bickel, Judy Rhoads, Gail Brower, Janet Bertollet, Janice Levan, Jeanette Kelly, Daniel and Robert Wolf, Peter Wise, William Hartmaier, Frank and Jay Hartung and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Keen Jr.

Kessler Auxiliary Gives Coatesville Ward Party

The Ladies' auxiliary of the Friedman-Leblang Kessler Post 363 gave a party Thursday night for ward six of the Coatesville hospital.

Led by their chairman, Mrs. Sam Brummer, the women served refreshments to 200 patients. There were games and prizes.

Women and friends from the post present were: Mrs. Harold Channing, Mrs. Sam Fuerman, Mrs. Melvin Zevon, Miss Jean Massutti, Mrs. Lean Prinz, Miss Gail Seccord, Miss Lynne George, Miss Dolly and Miss Leona Scoura, Mr. Joseph Raden, Mr. Erving Sand.

Also present were commander of the post, Mr. Sam Brummer, Mr. Harold Winters, Mr. Stanley Lohbron, Mr. Stanley Miller, Mr. Sidney and Mr. Alvin Weiss, Mr. Harold Krueger, Mr. Carl Bartholomew, Mr. Harold Channing, and Mr. Al Dworkin.

Wool Suit

It is with interest that we note the tendency of the leading French houses to create collections not only for the American women but to make them here too. Pierre Balmain, one of the most famous and well liked of the top designers, has done just this very thing. He follows the straight and narrow in this two-piece suit of red and black wool that appears in his first American collection. The important trend of the slim, straight skirt is apparent in the seeming simplicity of cut and line. A pinched waist serves as the focal point above the circular skirt fringe and jacket pocket flaps, which like the cuffs and demure collar are also fringed.

Budget Lamp Designs For Modern Living Will Please Hobbyists

By VIVIAN BROWN (AP Newsfeatures Writer)

There's a budget lamp for every personality and home decor.

Hobbyists, especially, will be pleased with new lamp base motifs which depict particular interests such as astrology, conchology or archeology.

Sculptured lamp bases, treated to look like stone dug out of Central American ruins, include reproductions of primitive Indian art forms such as sun gods and warrior heads.

The trend that started with botanical patterns on lamp bases has been extended to include fish and shells. These are in muted tones on white glass bases.

Italy's ceramic bases are available in a number of interesting motifs including a pineapple design of white and brown. American provincial forms such as butter-tubs and mortars are executed in natural birch, topped by compatible tweedy or burlap-textured shades.

Biedermeier and Empire designs are extremely popular. One Biedermeier lamp is of a classic silver-plated or bronze urn base with ram's heads on the sides. Empire table candelabra and floor lamps are in striking combinations of black and gold. Victorian-style vases served as the inspiration for interesting lamp bases, although these are treated with contemporary touches for better coordination in modern decor.

Obituaries

FRANCIS L. LAVERTU, 77, former head of the modern language department of The Hill school, died yesterday afternoon at 12:30 p. m. after suffering a heart attack at his Summer cottage at WOLFEBORO, N. H.

Mr. Lavertu, and his widow, Elsa (White) Lavertu, who resided at 640 King street, left Pottstown the past May for their annual visit to The Hill school Summer camp.

He was a member of The Hill school faculty for 34 years prior to his retirement in June, 1940.

Born in Berlin, N. H., on Nov. 26, 1874, Mr. Lavertu graduated from Bowdoin college, Brunswick, Me., in 1899, and came to The Hill in 1906. He was appointed head of the modern language department the following year.

An active member of Christ Episcopal church, he served as the rector's warden, the senior layman of the parish, for a number of years before he retired the past year due to failing health. He was also a member of the church choir, and the Men's club.

The Rev. G. A. Lineker, rector of the church said last night, "Mr. Lavertu was one of the finest and loyalist of guides and counselors that a rector could have."

He is survived only by his widow, Elsa. Services will be conducted in Wolfboro, N. H. Monday and interment will be made in Cambridge, Mass.

Candidate Withdrawal Deadline Is Extended

Perhaps Chlorophyll in Their Food Would Help

Because their PO (pig odor) offended motorists passing the famed pig farms at Secaucus, N. J., 70,000 grunlers are given an experimental deodorization treatment. The process is known as "space deodorization." A special fire apparatus sprays the deodorant after Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll orders the keepers of the pigs to "clean up or else." The Secaucus Stockfarmers association ordered the test.

Calf Show Is Feature At Grange Exhibit

One of the highlights of the community home economics and agricultural 4-H Clubs round up sponsored by Montgomery county Pomona Grange in co-operation with the Agricultural Extension John Lunderman, Norristown, RD, service, will be the 4-H dairy calf show today at Hallman's Grove, Skippack.

All dairy club members who have dairy calves or heifers as a club project and which are registered in the club member's name and come from tuberculin and Brucella clean herds, are eligible to compete.

Four breeds will be exhibited—Holstein, Guernsey, Ayrshire and Jersey. Each breed will be judged for type and the best of each breed selected. Winners from each breed will then compete against one another to determine the show champion. Judging will start at 10 o'clock. The official judge will be Donald Seipt, former assistant county agent in Dauphin county.

Each boy or girl exhibiting his calf will also compete in a showmanship contest. This contest will determine which member can handle and show his calf to best advantage.

AWARDS ARE: Best of breed $5 in each of four classes, best animal in show, $5; champion showman, $5. These awards are given by Pomona Grange and breed associations.

Those who will be eligible to show are James and John Gerstner, Everett, Elmer, and Richard Kriebel, of Lansdale, R D 2; Bill Nickerson, Pennsburg; Fred Seipt.

British Agriculturalists Says Surveys Show Farms Needing Help

STATE COLLEGE, Aug. 29 (AP)—It's the farmer who least needs help and advice who usually seeks it, Sir James Scott Watson, under secretary of Britain's Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries, told the 6th International Grassland congress.

He spoke to about 2000 delegates from 50 countries on how to put grassland information to work. The congress, first in the United States ends the week-long meeting.

Watson said that it seems to be the experience everywhere, and that it certainly is true in Britain, that "the farmers who actively seek advice are those whose need is least and that those who never ask are those whose need is greatest."

"We try to meet this difficulty by having every farm surveyed at intervals. The farmer receives a copy of the survey and is told to ask for advice. If he doesn't a district officer calls on him."

WATSON COMMENTED that if all farmers had the time and information to read for a few hours each week they could be kept well informed about the development of farm science and technology.

He reported that demonstrations at Britain's larger agricultural fairs is one of the most effective techniques at getting information across to the farmer.

Collaborating in the paper presented by Watson was O. G. Williams, provincial grassland advisor, National Agricultural Advisory

Nothing 'Sheepish' About Ike

"Let's go into partnership, you raise it and we'll share the profits," Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower tells young John Cosles, of Galena, Kan., as the Republican Presidential nominee is presented with a prize 4-H lamb by the young farmer in Kansas City.

Quality, Texture Are Requisites For Best Pickles

Pickles and relishes add just the right touch to the family or company dinner with their color, crispness, and tartness, they can add zest and spice, reminds Mrs. Della Short, home economics extension representative, Montgomery county. When pickles and relishes are made at home, they have a special significance.

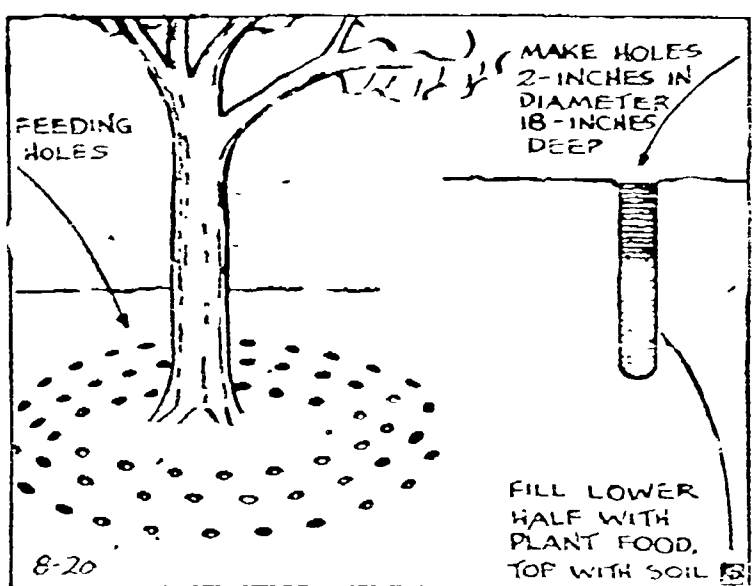

To have pickles and relishes of the best quality, there are a few things to keep in mind. First of all, the fruit of vegetable from which pickles are made should be of good quality, firm in texture and free from bruises or decay. Over-ripe fruits won't hold their shape in pickle making; overmature vegetables may result in pickles that are tough in texture or that will shrivel during the pickling process. A good grade of cider vinegar gives the best flavor though it will darken light-colored vegetables. White vinegar may be used for white vegetables, such as cauliflower and white onions.

Whole spices keep their flavor better than ground spices and are usually removed before pickles are stored. Use spices in moderation so the full flavor of the food being pickled is retained.

GRANULATED WHITE sugar, either cane or beet, is usually used, although some recipes call for brown sugar. Common salt in stead of table salt is advised for pickling. Soft water is best for pickling.

The good green color and crisp texture of vegetable pickles are obtained by the proper use of such curing agents as vinegar and salt. It is not advisable to add a coloring agent to bring about a green color in the pickles.

starving before feeding it. A healthy tree is able to resist many insect enemies and diseases.

A tree can slowly starve in its own front lawn. Leaves are carefully raked up like crumbs from the table. Nutrient in the soil is not replaced sometimes as rapidly as a tree requires and malnutrition sets in.

When feeding a tree the plant food should be distributed underneath the spread of the branches, as shown in the accompanying Garden Graph. Within this area make holes around the tree, as illustrated. The holes should be some two inches in diameter, 18 inches deep and about 18 inches apart. Fill the lower half of the holes

State Crop Estimator Will Retire Sunday

HARRISBURG, Aug. 29 (AP)—E. L. Gasteiger, chief State crop estimator, will retire Sunday after 27 years of service with the State Agriculture department.

Gasteiger, a native of Somerset county, has headed the Pennsylvania-Federal State Crop Reporting service since 1928. He directs some 1500 general crop reporters and 11,000 special reporters throughout the State.

The service gathers, compiles, interprets and distributes crop and livestock statistical information.

Agriculture Secretary Miles Horst commended Gasteiger for doing much for Pennsylvania agriculture through keeping farmers advised on the condition and production of crops, livestock, poultry and their products.

2 Pennsylvania Colleges To Set Up Laboratories

HARRISBURG, Aug. 29 (AP)—Gov. John S. Fine said today poultry disease diagnostic laboratories will be set up at both the Pennsylvania State college and the University of Pennsylvania.

Under a $75,000 appropriation by the 1951 Legislature, the laboratories will be used in research on the control and eradication of various poultry diseases.

The first compulsory pasteurization milk law was enacted in 1905 in Chicago.

Narcissus bulbs may be lifted and divided now. The bulbs should not be kept out of the ground any longer than necessary.

Continue spraying, watering and cultivating roses so as to keep the plants in full growth and vigor through the Autumn blooming period.

State Free of Cattle Disease, Quarantine Listed as Big Factor

No known cases of vesicular exanthema, a comparatively new disease of hogs prevalent in a number of other states, including New Jersey, have been reported in Pennsylvania, and with concerted help of hog raisers, may be kept out of late Dr. C. F. Noll, Pennell is a agent to a minimum, says County cross between Valprize and Nittany (Pennsylvania 44). It has, consistently outyielded all other wheat varieties in both experimental station trials and Extension service variety demonstrations. During the last three years, Pennell has averaged 2 to 4 bushels higher yield per acre than Thorne. Pennell is tall and very stiff, strawed. It matures a little later than Thorne.

Seneca is another new high yielding wheat variety. It is a sister variety to Thorne, developed in Ohio and named in 1950. Seneca is slightly stiffer strawed than Thorne. It has averaged 1 to 2 bushels per acre higher yield than Thorne over the past several years.

Hog owners who may find suspicious symptoms in their herd are urged to notify their local veterinarian immediately. The disease is similar to foot-and-mouth disease, of which there are no known cases at present in Pennsylvania but it does not affect cattle, sheep and other ruminants. It has appeared at several terminal slaughtering or feeding centers and other establishments where large numbers of hogs are handled in 14 states, principally in the Midwest. Raw garbage has been determined as the major factor in the introduction, perpetuation, and the spread of the disease, and most cases in other states have been traced to pig farms where untreated city garbage is fed to hogs.

New Wheat Seed Is Available Now

A plentiful supply of certified seed is available of both Pennell and Seneca, two new winter wheat varieties, reports County Agent, R. G. Waltz.

Pennell is a new Pennsylvania variety of wheat named and released in 1951 by the Pennsylvania State college. Developed by the of hog raisers, may be kept out of late Dr. C. F.
